Who Should Attend?

This two-day institute is designed for educators responsible for the induction process either as directors of professional development, coordinators of mentoring programs, school administrators, induction coaches, or mentors.

Outcomes

The goal of the Mentoring in the 21st Century® program is to assist educators in building their capacity for supporting new teachers in ways that help them to be fully qualified and fully satisfied.

- Fully qualified means that both new teachers and experienced teachers new to the district can demonstrate competency with the professional performance standards identified by their district and can, therefore, have a significant impact on student learning.
- Fully satisfied means that both new teachers and experienced teachers new to the district feel supported, valued, and productive as people and professional educators and, therefore not only stay in the teaching profession but continue to teach in the schools to which they are assigned.

Day One

- Purposes and goal setting
- Who are the new teachers?
- What are their challenges and concerns?
- What can we do to support new teachers around these challenges and concerns?
- When do these challenges and concerns develop?
- What are formats for mentoring interactions?

Day Two

- What are our peer observation possibilities?
- What should we be looking for in classrooms?
- What constitutes growth-producing feedback?
- How do we all work together to support new teachers?
- Resource review

About Just ASK Publications & Professional Development

Just ASK Publications & Professional Development is based in Alexandria, Virginia, USA. Established in 1989, Just ASK provides products and professional development opportunities for educators in formats that facilitate a shared understanding and use of best practice in teaching, learning, and leading in classrooms, schools, and districts in the 21st century.

Mentoring in the 21st Century

Brenda Kaylor

April 13 & 14, 2010

8:30 a.m. – 3:30 p.m.

This two-day institute is designed for educators responsible for the induction process either as directors of professional development, coordinators of mentoring programs, school administrators, induction coaches, or as mentors. The goal of the Mentoring in the 21st Century™ institute is to assist educators in building their capacity for supporting new teachers in ways that help them to be fully qualified and full satisfied.

Fully qualified means that the new teachers and experienced teachers new to the district can demonstrate competency with the professional performance standards identified by the district in which they work and can, therefore, have a significant impact on student learning.

Fully satisfied means that the new teachers and experienced teachers new to the district feel supported, valued, and productive as people and as professional educators and, therefore not only stay in the teaching profession but continue to teach in the schools to which they are assigned.

Brenda Kaylor is a Senior Consultant for Just ASK Publications and Professional Development. She is the former director of Professional Development in the St. Vrain Valley School District in Longmont, Colorado. Much of her focus while in that position was to accelerate the learning of novice teachers, their mentors, and coaches. The results of the work showed a sustained significant increase in student achievement in the classroom of novice teachers.

Cost: GCEDC members $350 and non-members $450. Includes breakfast beverages, lunch and materials. Participants will receive a certificate worth 15 contact hours. Graduate credit is available. Confirmation of registration and a campus map will be emailed to you prior to the workshop.

Refund/Cancellation: You must cancel 3 business days before the program in order to receive a refund. This program is subject to cancellation only if CSU is closed due to weather or other emergency, minimum enrollment is not met, or due to weather-related or personal emergency of the presenter.
